LOUISVILLE DAILY DEMOCRAT.

VOLUME XXIV.

LOUISVILLE, KENTUCKY: FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 26, 1867.

NUMBER 8.

The Louisville Courier on Democracy.The Jefferson-street paper says: Knowing the preferences of the people of Louisville for the patriotic and conservative principles of Democracy, our opponents are trying to enhance the party they represent by giving it that name.This party has sent out to the country "Campaign Document No. 1," in which it professes to tell the origin and principles of the party. It purports to give an account of its 22d of February convention.
It omits, however, some important particulars. It does not contain that famous speech of John W. Stevenson, its candidate for Lieutenant Governor, in which he declared the name of General Breckinridge, on account of his rebellious services, "troubled on his lips."Neither does this precious document it and the poor little concern across the street fought for Whigism, Native Americanism, Know-Nothingism, Secessionism, the right of slaves in the Territories, and even other issues than Yankee land could prove them into, and always against the National Democratic party, and deserted them all when in a majority. The Courier adds:Hessey and Jacob, and perhaps others, we believe, once claimed to be Democrats. What do they claim to be now?
They are with the rebels, and we are with the patriots. They are liars.
Neither does this precious document contain the speech of Gen. Preston, in which he invited them to receive these "rebel boys" among them, having previously said that the rebel boys vitalized the Democracy.Another very important omission is this, that the convention did not have the emphatic declaration of its Presiding officer that it was a reassembling of the old famous gathering at the old rebel convention broken up by Col. Gilbert in 1863.Why are these facts omitted? Simply because they wish to be with them. They are with a falsehood—a gross falsehood—lead them to believe that the miserable concern is a Union party. These are set forth in a document purporting to give the people a true opinion of the party. These striking omissions, coupled with the fact of Col. Wofford's speech having been printed, are as deliberate a falsehood as could be written. It is a disgrace to the State that a dominant party should stoop to such dishonorable practices to hold its ill-gotten power.The Courier, however, only represents them. It now pretends to be Conservative and Union. On Monday evening, December 17, 1866, in an article entitled "Our Policy as a Party," it said:The Confederates remembered that to the conservative members of the League they owed their release from the political disabilities which had been imposed upon them during the war, and in which that legislation originated. They therefore, received the Conservatives with open arms, to the Nations! Democratic mass meeting, and we assure our friends they will have a treat in the way of elequence, force and classic style.THE GREAT DAY AT MUNFORDVILLE.
We had the pleasure of meeting General Harlan yesterday, and receiving assurances from him of the growing success of the National Democratic party. Everywhere that there have been National Democratic speakers the cause is increasing rapidly. The last two or three weeks have effected more changes than was ever made in any canvass in the same space of time.General Harlan, and our friend, Colonel James T. Brummette, will speak at Munfordville to the gathering crowd of National Democrats who do not forget that they have a country worth preserving.
We will not ask a welcome, for Hart-county is glorious in hospitality; but we promise a treat to the old-fashioned Democrats.The Southern men last year proclaimed
